THE STOLEN GUNS .- The Military Board el Kentucky, in session on the 9th of July, the Governor being present, passed an order that the Governor should immediately call in the Stale arms then in the hands of the State Guard in order that they might be distributed between the State Guard and the Ilome Guard. His Excellency neglected to comply with the order, and to this day he has not complied with it.

There can be no excuse for this neglect, no palliation of it. But we venture to say that none of the secessionists of Kentucky, jealous as they profess to be of the honor of the State, will have one word to say in condemnation of the violent transfer of the State arms to Ten-

Mr. Thomas, of Maryland. I beg the leave of the Col. Wood at Blate word in violucation of the opinions I enterthin, and which I think others of my colleagues entertsin, upon the issues now.

Mr. Johnson will forward this to Col. Wood at Maryland. So it turns out substantially as we predicted in the Journal of yesterday. The Governor virtually compounds the robbery. Col. Travis, the commandant nt Camp Brown, Tennessec, where five hundred of the muskets and the six cannon stolen from Kentucky are now harbored, politely informs Gov. Magoflin, through his plenipotentiary Senator Johnson and of course after n full and friendly interchange of views with him, that the stolen arms are subject to the order of his Excellency, who, through the same go-between, suthorizes an agent to proceed to Camp Brown and politely receive the purpose of the gentleman's proceeding.

Mr. Thomas, of Maryland. I beg the leave of the privale and who, from every word in every proclamation he losse—and the next the propose of swines some few words in violication of the opinions lenterinin, and which I think the stone of saying some few words in violication of the opinions lenterinin, and which I think the stone of saying some few words in violication of the opinions lenterinin, and which I think the stone of saying some few words in violication of the privale and the propose of saying some few words in violication of the opinions lenterinin, and which I think the stone of saying some few words in violication of the opinions lenterinin, and which I think the stone of saying some few words in violication of the prival of saying some few words in violication of the prival of proceed to Camp Brown and politely receive the plundered property from the hands of the plunderers. And this is all! And thus the outrage is patched up and smoothed over!! But a single additional feature appears to be wanting to consummate nt once the diplomacy of Gov. Magostin and the disgrace of the State. The ngent should have been instructed by all means to express o Tennessee the overflowing gratitude of Kentucky for this last and most signal mark of respect on the part of her sister State! Doubtless the absent feature will be effectually

Why, sir, there is, after all, nothing a very asteunding in the position in which Mayland is placed, or the acts to which my college, the state of the st

I know it is the habit of most gentlemen who take part in discussions of this character to look to the Poostitution of the United States and to the Pwest of Congress on the statute-books as the only source from whence to ascertain the extent of the powers a commandor in chief has in emergencies like those which surround Gen. Banks at saltimore. Can we ignore altogother what is nown to unmartial law? Because Congrass has of declared that martial law shall not, under tution provides for the organization of the army; and incidentally it carries with it all those powers that are given to the Commander-in-Chief when in the field. As well might we say, because the Constitution does not point out the mode and manner in which milliary forces shall be drafted and disciplined, that therefore the Commander-in-Chief of the Army is guilty of great usurpation in adopting some particular mode in preparing that army for the field. Our fathors knew that such a law as martial law existed. They knew that such a law was exercised upon emergencies. They knew it had been exercised again and again in the country from whence we dorized our provailing language. And when we don'ted our provailing language. And when they did not, upon the face of the Constitution, deny to the military commanders the right to declare martial law and avail themselves of all

That is the language indered by the peace commissioners of the city of Baltimore, appointed to protect the people in the law carries with it the power, in the Commandorin-Chief, not only to suspend the writ of haleas corpus, and to arrest suspicious individuals, but it supersedes all civil power which stands in the way. Assuming that to be true, what is the condition of affairs in Baltimore, and, indeed, all over of the city of Baltimore, appointed to protect the people in the peaceful pursuits and avocations which, thank God, by the strong arm of military power they are now enjoying. These were the sentiments of Marshal Kane. They were followed up by action. But, no; I will not go into details. We know that he was in the very front rank of bridge burners. To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: Thera seems to he a general feeling that a Senator ie to be elected in this city in accordance with an opinion of the Attorney General. There is no one in the District who would give more general satisfaction than Mr. A. B. Semple. He are all the process of the spicial and the process of the spicial and the second s is an old husiness man and a perfectly raliable Union man.

A VOTER.

We heartily endorse all that our correspon dent saya of Mr. Semple, and we could heartily endorse as much more. Mr. S. is a sound, sensible, well-informed, and intellectual man. and as true and devoted a patriot as ever stood beneath the Star Spangled Banner.

The Courier of yesterday contains a very ungenerous though characteristic paragraph in reference to the conduct of certain residents of Hutchertown on Thursday, alleging that the eccession candidate for the State Senate could not ohtain a hearing when he essayed to make a speech. We can well imagine that our gallant friands of Butchertown, who are ever loval and palpable expression to their loyality and patriotism, and we have to regret that the excould be permitted to give nerestrained expression to their sentiments on all occasions, but, if we can ever efford to relinquish the blessed boon of free speech, it should be upon an occasion when treason seeks utterance in a loyal commu-

Convention.-Under the new apportionment a Senator will have to be chosen for the District mprising the seven lower wards, from the Third to the Ninth inclusive. The Fifth Ward has appointed its delegates, and the Sixth Ward holds meeting to night to appoint their delegates; it ie therefore important that the other words comprised in this district should immediately hold a meeting end alect delegates.

Let the Union men of the different wards be 'up end doing," as but a few days interveno hefore the election takes place. It has been suggested that the Convention of the delegates meet at the City Court It som on Wednesday evening next, the JIst inst., at 8 o'clock.

RADER'S HOTEL AT SEYMOUN, IND .- To Kenrendered it famous among the travellers in that direction. But the full merits of the establishment can be known only to those who have had accasion to remain long enough to experience the hospitality of the efficient proprietor. Mr. George Rader. A recent visit to that region with a party of friands enables us to bear our personal testimony and to the very high merits of this establishment to the boundless and cordial hospitality with which its superior accommodations are extended to the travelling public. Mr. R. and his accomplished lady are both Kentuckians, and while all their guests receive every attention that could contribute to their comfort and convenience, our party in their recent visit found that the very neme of Kentuckian was a passport to their hearts as well as to every hounty of their hospitable board. They will long remember the generous kindness and attention which they received nt the hands of "Captain George" and Annt Nancy, and they say emphetically to all visitors to Sevmour, "Stop at Reder's."

JUFF BROWN A CITIZEN OF NEW ALBANY We have twice alluded to the fact that Mr. Jetl' Brown, secession candidate for the Kentucky Senate, is not, by the law of Kentucky, which we have cited, a citizen of Kentucky. The following letter from a respectable citizen of New Albany is conclusive upon the subject. Please, Mr. J.ff Brown, stand aside:

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: NEW ALBANY, IND., July 24, 1861.

I notice in this morning's Journal a card over the signature of Jetf Browe, secossion candidate for the Kentucky State Senate, in which he stetes that he is now, and has been for the last four years, a resident of Louisville. I do not propose to call In question the gentlemen's statement, but will merely furnish you with a few facts, which I trust 'will be satisfactory to all persons coecrned.' In Hewee's New Allamy Directory for 1859 (the last published) appears the following: 'Brown, Jetferson, res. n. side Market, bet. Ur. Fourth and Fifth.' Mr. B. may yet be found at 'the same old stand,' which his family has occupied continuously since the shuve date. He leaves this city for Louisville every morning (Sundays excepted) immediately after breakfast, NEW ALBANY, IND., July 24, 1861, (Sundays excepted) immediately after breakfast, and returns here is time for supper. "If I were to endeavor to bequeath to posterily the most important motto which hum in language can convey, says Mr. Carlin, "it should be in three words: Shut-your-Mouth."

Mr. Catlin addresses himself chiefly to mother Mr. Cathin addresses himself chiefly to moting. He urges them to keep tightly closed not only their own months, but their children's, of both sexes and all ages. He assures them that out of the mouth, or through it when it is open-proceeds consumption, dyspepsia, rotten teeth, a crooked spine, ill temper, snoring; and, if there be any other diseases which man fear, they loo assail man's vital parts by way of the mouth.

If you want to catch a contagious disease, leep with your month opan. If you want to have disagreeable dreams, slaep with your mouth peu. If you want to spoil your teeth, you ood locks, and your temper, sleep with you

Mr. Critin believes that the mese was intended him breached the ught. He believes air should be been able to the times only through the nose, and never through the in util; and to prove the currectness of his theory he cites a number of curious facts of experiences of his own.

He ramarks that in times when cholera or yellow fever are prevalent, persons who habitually breathe through the mouth are me t subject to these infections. And here we may bring in the general voice of seamen to corroborate his statement. All experiences sailors sleep, habitually, with closely shift mouths. One reason for this may he that rosches, which are very large and extremely abundant on board ship, are apt to crawlisite au open mouth to investigate its comments—the large East Indian roach being, as is well known an animal of highly inquisitive character. But another and equally powerful reason is the general belief, among, seamen, that the air tailer with missmatic poison is mere or less purined by leing inhaled through the nostrils. They believe with Mr. Catlin, that

"And do you want justice?" "Of course I do." "Woll, my boy, you are looking for a thing you can' get." He replies that he must get it. The rejoinder is, that he might as well be crying for the moon; that there is no justice, strictly so called, to be had in this world, that I get full justice ho must wait for the next world, and then possibly it is not full justice, but mercy, ha will than be wishing for. The man looks thoughtful and somewhat calmed, and the schoolmaster goes on: "Do you think I get full stream that the stream is the day she will make them helieve.
